

Approximate Solution of a Nonlinear Integro-Differential Beam Equation

Zviad Tsiklauri

Georgian Technical University
zviad_tsiklauri@yahoo.com

The Galerkin and difference methods are used respectively for spatial and time variables to solve a nonlinear integro-differential dynamic beam equation. The resulting algebraic system of cubic equations is solved by the iterative method. The iteration process error is estimated.