Investigation and numerical solution of one non-linear integro-differential model

Tamar Paikidze

one non-linear integro-differential equation of the fourth order and a system of equations are examined. For them, the issues of stability and uniqueness of solutions of initial-boundary problems are studied. A difference scheme for the system is constructed. Numerical experiments are carried out and analysis of the obtained results is given.